

Today the Downes family is pictured in the same positions, with the addition of son Eddie, 12, first row right.

The games will be hauled out again this week at the Downes house, now that all are together. The Downes live at 709 Salt Springs Rd. The two pictures accompanying this story show the Downes' daughters and their parents 15 years ago, and now, all standing in the same position in the family yard. The only difference is that Eddie is in the latter photo, the one boy among a bevy of honey-haired beauties.

Daughter Betsy, age 21, is a senior at LeMoyne College where she is majoring in English. Catherine, 20, arrived home from her studies at Penn State where she is a health administration student. Dorothy Ann, 17, came from Amsterdam, where she matriculates at St. Mary's School of Nursing. Mary, and her husband John Seebach, a social worker, are here from Rochester, with their son, Eric. Daughter, Peggy, and her husband, Philip Bozek, both Ph. D. candidates at the University of Southern Illinois, are home.

Nancy, 16, a student at West Side Catholic High School, Eddie, 12, a pupil at Our Lady of Solace School, and Joanne, a school counselor, complete the family picture.

"We always stressed religious values and togetherness," says Margaret.

The Downes children agree there's no place like home for the holidays.
